LOCATION RECORDING

- Red Caiman has a well-rounded staff whose skill sets go beyond engineering. We combine our technical knowledge with formal training in composition, performance, and songwriting. Starting a new project can be intimidating, but we can help break down the process and take a creative idea all the way to a polished product. Whether it's building a song's instrumentation or connecting you with the right musicians, we are well-equipped to meet your project's needs.
- Our studio was designed and purpose-built to not only be a great place to record, but also create. In addition to top of the line recording equipment, our studio has high quality instruments that are well maintained and ready to use.
- The needs of every client and project are different. We recognize these needs, and are ready to meet you where you are. Give us a call or an email - we would love to show you our space and talk with you about your next project.

"Every artist looks for a studio that brings out their best work. It's a combination of the right gear, the right vibe, and the right people who surround the artist on a project. Red Caiman checks every box. Jesse sets the example for his team with his professionalism and magnetic personality. This is my home for all recording projects."

-Nick Marzock

"Recording my music at Red Caiman was a great experience for me. Jesse, Ben, and Greta are all very talented engineers, and working with them was absolutely amazing."
